If You Ask, Mean It!

By Don Ruhl

Do you lack wisdom? You can ask God for it, and He will bless you with it, but ask in faith, with no doubting, otherwise you will be like a wave of the sea driven and tossed by the wind.

You will not receive anything from the Lord, if you are not even sure what it is that you want, and if you are not sure that He can supply it. He does not bless double-minded people, because they are unstable, not only in prayer, but in all their ways (James 1:6-8).

Therefore, if you ask God for something, mean what you say and say what you mean!

Lord, Help Me through Today Matt. 6:34

These are difficult days filled with anxiety, frustration, and stress. There are all kinds of problems: family, financial, health, moral, aging, grief, and the nagging pressure of time. The accumulation of so many problems can make you sick! Many become chronically tired, tied up in knots with aching muscles, feeling overwhelmed with work, or getting easily irritated and hard to get along with. Several Biblical characters understood these anxieties:

- Jacob described his 130 years of life to Pharaoh as “few and unpleasant” (Gen. 47:9).
- Moses spent a period of his life “wearing himself out” by taking on the tasks too heavy for him to bear alone (Ex. 18:18).
- Job depicted life as “short-lived and full of turmoil” (Job. 14:1)
- Jeremiah complained that his preaching only brought “reproach and derision all day long.” (20:8). He became so discouraged that he said, “Woe to me, my mother, that you have born me.” (15:10)

Jesus gave us a marvelous prescription to deal with our daily pressures in Matt. 6:34. He said, “Therefore, do not be anxious for tomorrow, for tomorrow will care for itself. Each day has enough trouble of its own.” For many just getting through today is a struggle of its own. We ask what we can do about today. Can God help me today to have peace and joy? What will help me to bear my burdens and trials on this day? “I’m living one day at a time. But, Lord, help me through today.”

God does indeed hear the cries of His children and help them survive. Asaph said, “God is the strength (rock) of my heart and my portion forever” (Psa. 73:26). David, with all his troubles could sing Psalm 145: The Lord sustains all who fall, And raises up all who are bowed down. . . The Lord is near to all who call upon Him, To all who call upon Him in truth. He will fulfill the desire of those who fear Him; He will also hear their cry and will save them. The Lord keeps all who love Him. (14, 18- 20)
